Bulk Transport Contracts

We've been transporting food-grade products with high level of efficiency. Our drivers are assigned to individual shippers, so they handle the same type of equipment and cargo on every run. That experience—with your job site, your personnel and your product—is invaluable in increasing efficiency and achieving on-time deliveries.

We haul millions of bulk dairy from farm to plant every single day. Maximizing our productivity calls for superb fleet management, and one of the ways we do it is through the use of innovative technology.

Our system gives drivers the ability to receive real-time dispatch information and wirelessly submit all data associated with each load. Shaz uses web-enabled mobile devices linked to our online dispatch application. Using the mobile units, drivers, who are trained and certified to handle bulk milk, can quickly scan and transmit load information, automatically creating a detailed record of each milk shipment. The driver-assigned with Shaz hand-held units also have a built-in GPS system that enables dispatchers to track vehicle movement and activity.
